Rocky Raccoon: Comments: @Squirrel and others, I am doing a similar job right now M52, 2000 Z3 2.3 Roadster and no, on my vehicle I don't think it is necessary to lock the crank and cams, especially if your vehicle is totally immobilized. It might be a best practice but to my understanding the dual VANOS intake/output pistons actuate on one axis and are agnostic about the engine's angle.

The BMW E30 is the second generation of BMW 3 Series, which was produced from 1982-1994 and replaced the E21 3 Series. The model range included coupé and convertible body styles, as well as being the first 3 Series to be produced in sedan and wagon/estate body styles. It was powered by four-cylinder petrol, six-cylinder petrol and six-cylinder diesel engines, the latter a first for the 3 Series.

When I start my car morning noon or evening, I have to let it warm up from 10-15 minutes. It will then drive ok for about 47 miles and then it will lose pulling power. I have to pull over turn the car off and when I start it again it is usually good for another 5-10 miles. If the check engine light comes on when it happens, I have to clear the codes. I have a 1999 323i auto transmission.
