Detail engineering in piping projects consists of the engineering, design, detail and layout of process and utility equipment, piping and instrumentation. This three-day course provides participants with the background required to design, engineer and complete piping assignments. This course should be of interest to people employed in any area that piping is present (Refinery, Chemical, Power ...

When a fluid is required to be transferred from one location to other, pipe is required. A pipe is considered as a pressure tight cylinder which is used to convey fluids under pressure through materials of commercially available designation.

Detailed Engineering is the essential link that bridges basic design engineering and the construction phase of a project. With our expertise in advanced design engineering tools and practices, we extend our capabilities to expedite planning, design and digital validation of manufacturing systems before their construction.

Piping is a major expenditure in the design and construction of industrial, refinery, petrochemical, or power-generating plants when one considers engineering costs, material costs, and fabrication and field labor costs.

1.0 General Introduction to Jacketed Piping. This specification covers the design of steam jacketed piping, continuous (fully jacketed)/discontinuous (Not fully jacketed), for use on process piping systems where solidification of medium may occur.

Piping and instrumentation diagram, also called P&ID, illustrates the piping processes and interactions with other installed equipment and instrumentation. P&IDs are often used in the process industry to show the process flow and other installed equipment and instrument.

The Piping or Mechanical Field Engineer is a direct contributor to the safety of the work operations at the construction site. Since all safe work operations must begin with preplanning, the Field Engineer makes a direct contribution to safety by reviewing the planned work with safety in mind.
